Music Grade 2 to 3 Collection

Growing with Music Key Stage 2A

General Description: British multimedia series presents a vocal/composition program using Kodaly methodology to increase aural awareness and develop musical thinking. Key Stage 2A comprises two student books with activities, a teacher's guide, and an audio cassette. The audio cassette contains high-quality performances of the program repertoire by children's choirs, and male and female adult singers. Orchestrations are on authentic acoustic instruments. Book 1 is also appropriate for Grade 1. Some material is reflective of the British culture and teachers will need to supplement material in order to augment cultural and historical contexts, as well as provide Canadian and First Nations content. This series has been developed with the needs of a non-specialist classroom teacher in mind.

How We Make Music

General Description: Fifteen-minute video is part of the Silver Burdett Ginn Music Magic video series that explores topics such as rhythm, melody, voice, folk dance, and instrument families. In this video, which is appropriate for segmented viewing, students discover some forms of music making from distant lands, including tapa pounding from Tonga, Sasa dancers from Samoa, panpipe music from the Andes, pipa playing from China, and the music of a young violinist. Two episodes feature appealing and motivating examples of body percussion. The final episode features the Soul Children of Chicago in a gospel performance. The accompanying teacher's guide describes the episodes, and provides discussion aids, some critical thinking questions, suggestions for student follow-up, vocabulary, and additional information to aid in developing lesson plans. Although the videos in this series are cross-referenced to the Music Connection program, they can be used in conjunction with any music program.

Melody

General Description: Fifteen-minute video is part of the Silver Burdett Ginn Music Magic video series that explores topics such as rhythm, melody, voice, folk dance, and instrument families. In this video, viewers explore melodic contour and phrases. In episodes which are appropriate for segmented viewing students can follow a melody as a bell choir performs, see a computer-animated performance of a piece for synthesizer, and move to phrases while listening to a Hawaiian song. The accompanying teacher's guide describes the episodes, and provides discussion aids, some critical thinking questions, suggestions for student follow-up activities, vocabulary, and additional information to aid in developing lesson plans. Although the videos in this series are cross-referenced to the Music Connection program, they can be used in conjunction with any music program.

Music for Special Occasions

General Description: Fifteen-minute video is part of the Silver Burdett Ginn Music Magic video series that explores topics such as rhythm, melody, voice, folk dance, and instrument families. In this video, which is appropriate for segmented viewing, viewers discover that music plays a role in special events in most cultures. Examples of cultural/historical music include the Nongak performers from Korea, the festivities of Carnival, and a Kwanzaa celebration. Students will see how music sets the mood for special events and discover how circumstances of performance influence a composer's musical decisions. The accompanying teacher's guide describes the episodes, and provides discussion aids, some critical thinking questions, suggestions for student follow-up, vocabulary, and additional information to aid in developing lesson plans. This resource is also listed in the Dance K/1 and 2/3 Grade Collections. Although the videos in this series are cross-referenced to the Music Connection program, they can be used in conjunction with any music program.
